Bees on the cover of TIME

The price we'll pay if we don't find out what's killing the honeybee... You can thank the Apis mellifera, better known as the Western honeybee, for 1 in every 3 mouthfuls you'll eat today. Honeybees — which pollinate crops like apples, blueberries and cucumbers — are the "glue that holds our agricultural system together," as the journalist Hannah Nordhaus put it in her 2011 book The Beekeeper's Lament.

Get yourself a copy of this month's TIME, or read the article online. This is so important and more needs to be done before it's too late!

Its State Fair time!

Take the family to see all that's happening at our WA state and county fairs. What happens at a fair... free entertainment, rodeos, animals, art & culture, kids fun, attractions, rides, concerts, interactive fun, food, shopping, learn more about bees & more.
